The Supremacy of the Press.

From Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, Nov. 2.

In this century a new empire has arisen, greater already than the Rome of the Cæsars or the Popes, yet only in its infancy. It is the empire of the press. The world has seen many systems of power—that of the Freemasons, who have secretly influenced all Christendom; the Society of the Jesuits; the priesthood, both Catholic and Protestant; the army; the law; but none of these possess the terrible power of the press. The pulpit is even now a second rate means of influencing the masses of mankind; the army is at the best mere brute force; the law is now nothing but an umpire in disputes; but the newspaper is everything. It takes the place of the Parliament, of the Courts, of the Church. There is no method of acting upon mind, of revolutionizing the convictions of a nation, of inspiring new ideas and directing popular movements, which compares with it in rapidity, directness and extent. All other methods are clumsy or imperfect; but this is almost like the light of the sun, so swift, electric and universal in its influence. Yet how young and undeveloped is the new empire. Journalism as a profession is a creation of the last thirty years, as a great profession it is no older than the telegraph. But to-day it is the supreme power of the world. Thirty years ago the orators ruled America; to-day it is ruled by the editors.

This sway will become far more absolute than any of us can realize. See what has already been done. We have put a newspaper into the hands of every man who reads in the United States. For a mere trifle the news of the whole world is spread out before him, day after day. Can the pulpit or the forum do as much? They at the most can but proclaim absolute truths, which was the same three hundred years ago, but the newspapers give the facts. We have brought the telegraph, the steamboat and railroad into service, and with other inventions will come more varied means of obtaining information and distributing it rapidly and cheaply. This secures us the entrance to every household, and then follows the use of the opportunity. The orator and the preacher have not this invaluable advantage.—They must ask for a hearing; we obtain it by force. The people can avoid the lecture room or the church, but they cannot avoid the newspapers. Thus we compel our audience, and may say to it what we please. And though the speaker has none of our advantages, we have all of his. The newspaper can be as eloquent as the orator, and can preach as earnestly as the clergyman. We duplicate all their functions as teachers of mankind, and have others of our own which they are for ever denied. Henry Clay or Daniel Webster, in the days when their names were on every tongue, did not exert one-third of the influence over men that the newspapers of New York do to-day. Why? What is the ambition of the orator now? Not to make his speeches, but to get them published. Mr. Colfax and Mr Seymour, cared very little for the audiences their voices reached at the recent meetings in this city, for behind the few thousand people there they beheld the mind on readers of the Tribune and the Herald. The office of the speaker as the leader of men has perished forever. Demosthenes is dumb; in his stead is "the pale and silent man who, writing alone at midnight, holds the fate of empires upon the point of his pen."

Therefore, it will no longer do for the novelist or the satirist to present the Hon. Jefferson Brick, or the Eatanswill Gazette as types of journalism. There are mean and miserable men in all professions—from soldiers like McClellan, thieving lawyers at the Tombs, quacks in medicine, and Judases who betray Christ in the pulpit—and journalism is no exception. But no one who is not hopelessly stupid can revive in this day the old talk about Bohemia and Grub street. There is a class of men among bankers and merchants and lawyers who affect a condescension towards the journalist, which is intensely amusing. The writer for the newspaper appeals to their blinking eyes a kind of literary adventurer, who is to be tolerated for his genius, but not to be trusted in business. They are ignorant that it is the newspaper that sells their goods, furnishes all their facts and presents them gratuitously with their opinions. They do not know, as Jay Cooke does, that the newspapers of America sold two thousand millions of national bonds. They do not know, as Edwin M. Stanton knows, that the newspapers of America sent five hundred thousand men to the war. They do not know that the newspapers of America will nominate the candidate for the Presidency, determine the election, dictate the legislation of Congress and decide whether Andrew Johnson is to be impeached. Newspapers lead them by the nose wherever they go; but they do not feel the pressure, which is the particular reason why we give this especial tweak.

We write this for the good of our profession. That it will be read by the public is something we cannot help, nor do we care, though the argument may appear too much of a boast. But we are in earnest in the declaration that journalism is the greatest of all professions, the most powerful influence in the present, destined to be triply powerful in the future. Its destiny in America is especially noble, for this is a nation of readers. Journalism would be a tyranny were it not for the impossibility of a monopoly. The independence of thought and the rivalry of journalists make it the permanent ally of progress and freedom. It moves with the people, and as it influences them is influenced in return. Thus, it will grow with the nation. Every man who edits a paper, even though it be an obscure sheet on the borders of civilization, should know his responsibility. He should remember the dignity of his profession and sustain it. We make public opinion, and the men who make the laws and execute them are appointed by our will. The newspaper is the engine which moves and directs the masses of mankind. We foresee the day when all other professions will be, in confession as they are in fact, dependencies of this absolute empire of thought.

A Maniac on Board a Railway Train.

From the Detroit Post, Nov 7.

A gentleman who arrived from Chicago on Tuesday morning gives the following particulars in relation to an affair which transpired on the train, and if the circumstances are as stated they are and indeed. A middle aged man came into the sleeping car just after leaving Chicago on Monday night and ordered a berth, and it was observed by his fellow travelers that he seemed in great mental agitation, and would often press his hands to his temples, at the same time muttering unintelligible words. After entering the berth he commenced groaning, and was then asked the cause of his trouble, when he stated that he was the captain of a boat which had laid up for the winter at Milwaukee, where he had been paid his wages, amounting to $300, but had been enticed into a gambling saloon and had there fallen a victim to two sharpers, who introduced the novel game known as "three card monte," and left him penniless. From a friend he had borrowed money enough to pay his expenses to Buffalo, where he has a wife and three children, whose subsistence during the coming winter was to have been the money he had lost. He repeatedly exclaimed, "Oh! my poor family, what will become of them this winter? They will starve, they will starve!" He then laid down and nothing more was heard from him for some time, when the conductor of the car was alarmed at hearing the crash of glass, and rushing to the berth of the unfortunate man found that he had smashed the window and was endeavoring to climb through. He was pulled in again, when it was found that he was a raving maniac. His ravings are described as fearful, and upon reaching Judson it was found necessary to remove him from the train, and he was delivered to the authorities for safe keeping.

Iowa journals complain of the great damage done by careless or malicious parties setting fire to the prairies.

A Three Hours' Combat With an Elephant.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, Nov 8.

Mr. Hyatt Frost, of Van Amburgh's Menagerie, gave us yesterday, the particulars of a terrible fight with Tippoo Sahib, the well-known elephant, which occurred at Connersville, Indiana, last Tuesday. The menagerie has gone into winter quarters at that place, and the animal is chained in a small building. Tippoo Sahib is now the largest elephant in America. He is thirty-six years old, and weighs 10,000 pounds.—The battle resulted from a change in his keeper. Frank Nash, his keeper for ten years, was recently supplanted by Charles Johnson, formerly of Barnum's Menagerie. The elephant was in particularly bad humor, with all mankind. He would allow nobody in his quarters, striking at every intruder with his trunk and tusks most viciously. On Tuesday morning last, at ten o'clock, the battle opened. The new keeper, with nine assistants, had fully equipped himself with chains and cables for tying, and spears and pitchforks for subduing Tippoo. The first thing done was to fasten a brickbat to the end of a rope and throw it over the end of the tusk-chain, which latter is fastened to one leg and one tusk. By means of this rope, a twenty-ton cable-chain (formerly used to subdue the famous Hannibal,) was slip-nooned around the tusk. Next, an excavation three feet deep was made under the sill of the house, and when the elephant's attention was attracted to the other side of the room by a pail of water poured into his trough, the cable-chain was passed through the excavation and fastened to heavy stakes outside. All this time the infuriated monster struck all around him with terrible ferocity, and tugged at his chain with incredible momentum. The next thing accomplished was the snaring of his hind legs. This was consummated by the slinging of fresh ropes around those two stately pillars of elephant flesh, bone and muscle, and finally, by the stealthy strategy of the keeper and another man, these ropes were fastened to stumps outside. The elephant was now sufficiently pinioned to allow the order "charge pitchforks" to be given. Ten men, armed with these ugly implements of offence, plunged them into the rampaging beast, taking care, of course, to avoid penetrating his eyes or joints. The tenderest spot in an elephant is just behind the fore legs, and that locality was prodded unmercifully. By means of a hooked spear sunk in his back Tippoo was brought to his knees, but he surged up again with such awful strength that he swept the tormentors off their feet, and made his chains whistle like fiddle-strings. After an hour's fighting he was brought down on his side, but for two hours longer he tugged at his chains with frenzied obstinacy. He pulled so hard at times that his hind legs were straight out behind him, and three feet off the ground. At the end of the three hours the giant gave in by trumpeting, which is the elephant's way of crying enough. The moment this peculiar cry was heard the battle ceased. The keeper made Tippoo get up and lie down a number of times, and he was as obedient to the word of command as a gentle pony. The animal was then groomed and rubbed off with whisky. He allowed all manner of liberties without so much as flapping an ear. He was a subjugated elephant. At one stage of the fight the dog Jack (a companion of the elephant) thought some of the tying business fair play. He flew upon Johnson's back and tried to sink his fangs into his neck, but was pulled off and dragged out of the room. Jack evidently sympathized with his big friend.

General Grant Favors the Reconstruction Measures of our Radical Congress.

From the Baltimore American.

Leading officeholders of President Johnson are constantly evincing their dread of Grant. They lose no opportunity of putting forth innuendoes, and even flat assertions, intended to throw doubt upon his position as an earnest supporter of Congress and its plan of reconstruction. Montgomery Blair is the most prominent of those who are labouring to misrepresent his position, and he is probably the most shrewd and unscrupulous of those who are now working to restore the Democratic party to full power. That there should be any doubts entertained upon the subject, is a matter of the greatest surprise. He makes no secret of the fact that he is an earnest Republican, and his friends would as soon doubt the devotion of Judge Chase, Speaker Colfax, or Senators Wilson and Wade to all the leading principles of the party. Congress will meet in ten days, and within three days after its assemblage there will be not room left for one to doubt the position of General Grant. His testimony given six months ago before the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives will then be published. It will forever silence the cavil or suspicion on this subject. It is a voluntary statement, and was not drawn out by any cunningly devised questioning on the part of the members of the committee. It is a statement made long before there was any serious talk of bringing him out as candidate for the Presidency. Every Republican member of the Judiciary Committee endorses him, and the whole Republican party of the country will enroll him as among those entitled to full membership. The publication of this testimony will have more weight than any declarations that might be now made by Gen. Grant in reply to the suspicions and innuendoes thrown out by Montgomery Blair, and he can afford to wait ten days longer.

It has been well said by Professor Miller, of Edinburgh, that "alcohol cures nothing; it covers up a great deal." Dr. Guthrie, writing in the same strain, says, "If you want to keep a dead man, put him in whiskey; if you want to kill a living man put the whiskey into him." Wine is a capital medicine take it in the original package. If you must take wine for a medicine, take it in the original shape. Wine in grapes, "wine in pills," will never hurt anybody. George III., writing to his favorite minister, Lord North, says: "I am sorry to find your cold is increased, and I strongly recommend abstinence and water as the ablest and safest physicians."

"I shall die happy," said the expiring husband to the wife who was weeping most dutifully by the bedside, "if you will only promise not to marry that object of my unceasing jealousy, your cousin John." "Make yourself quite easy, said the agonized widow, "I am engaged to his brother."

The American Cooking Stove.
This stove has again been awarded two first premiums at our State Fair at Buffalo, one for coal and one for wood. We are now enabled to announce the unparalleled result of this stove having taken the first premium at the New York State Fairs for the last six consecutive years, notwithstanding it has been brought in competition with all the best stoves made in the State, and many from other States, and notwithstanding the persistent, combined and determined efforts of its competitors to defeat it. And its success is not alone confined to this State. On the 19th of September it was awarded two first premiums at the New Jersey State Fair, and has also been awarded the first premium at the Pennsylvania State Fair, and has never been exhibited at a State Fair and failed to take the first premium, and the premiums it has taken at county fairs are too numerous to mention. And these awards are fully endorsed by the people throughout the country. Its name has become a household word from Maine to California, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and the demand has become so large that no withstanding our large and increased facilities for manufacturing, we are unable to supply the demand promptly.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

BY THE WESTERN UNION LINE

This is the only paper between Pittsburgh and Erie that receives the Associated Press Telegrams and Cable Dispatches.

VERY LATEST NEWS.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

PARIS, Nov. 12—Midnight.

The reported resignation of Merqui's De La Valette, Minister of State for the Interior, is confirmed. The Emperor has appointed Mr. Pinnard his successor. Mr. Pierre Magne has also been appointed Minister of Finance.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 12—Evening

The prisoners Roberts, Featherstone and Gould, were brought up before the Commission to-day and were each sentenced to five years imprisonment. All the indictments have been disposed of. The Special Commission for the trial of the Manchester rioters was dissolved.

FLORENCE, Nov. 12.

The Gazette published the text of the diplomatic note from Prime Minister Menabrea, which delares that the suppression of the temporal power of the Pope is indispensable to the maintenance of good relations between Italy and France.

LONDON, Nov. 13.

Late dispatches from Florence state that the recent note from Menabrea, Prime Minister of Italy, has had a very quieting effect on the prices of Italy. However, they are almost unanimously of the opinion that it is impossible to reconcile the differences existing between the Italian Government, the people and the Pope.

NEW YORK.

News from Alaska

NEW YORK, Nov. 13

A special to the New York Herald from New Archangel, Oct. 9th, via Swinomish, W. T., Nov. 2d, says: The formal transfer and delivery of Russian America to the United States Government, took place to-day. Capt. Pestrechoff, acting commissioner on behalf of the Russian Government, and Major General Rousseau. At three p. m. a battalion of United States troops, under command of Major Charles A. Wood, Ninth Infantry, was drawn up in front of the Governor's residence, and by half past three a large concourse had assembled, comprising Americans, Russians, Creoles and Indians. At the last named hour, the Russian forts and fleet fired salutes in honor of lowering the Russian flag, but the flag would not come down. In lowering it tore its entire width close by the halyards and floated from the cross-trees, forty feet from the ground. Three Russians had vainly attempted to mend the knot and a half guy rope supporting the flag staff, but each failed, when a fourth ascended in a boatswain's chair, seized the flag and threw it in the direction directly beneath him, but the motion of the wind carried it off. Five minutes after lowering the Russian flag, the stars and stripes went gracefully up, Major General Lovell Rousseau declining the honor of flinging the flag to the breeze, the United States steamers Ossipee, and Resaca at the same time honoring the event by firing salutes. As the Russian flag was lowered Captain Pestrechoff stepped forward and addressed General Rousseau as follows. "General, as Commissioner of His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Russia, I now transfer and deliver the territory of Russian America ceded by his Majesty to the United States." General Rousseau, in response, as the American flag ascended, said "As Commissioner in behalf of the United States Government I accept the same accordingly." The Commissioners spoke in a tone of common conversation and were only heard by Governor Makestoff, General Jeff. C. Davis, Captain Kuskol and a few others who formed the group. Several ladies witnessed the ceremonies; among them were Princess Makestoff, Mrs. General Davis and Mrs. Major Wood. The Princess wept audibly as the Russian flag went down. The transfer was conducted in a purely diplomatic and business-like manner, and the entire transaction was concluded in a few hours. The Ossipee, with the Commissioners on board, was steaming into the harbor at eleven o'clock in the forenoon and at four o'clock in the afternoon a dozen American flags were floating over the newly-born American city of Sitka.—

The steamer Ossipee experienced a terrific hurricane forty miles off Archangel which nearly wrecked her. She lost all her boats, a number of sails, her chronometer was destroyed, and most of the fires were put out. She slipped an immense sea which damaged the powder in the magazine. Several sailors were wounded, but none killed. Gen. Rousseau and staff were aboard at the time. The hurricane swept over the harbor with great violence and several vessels were badly damaged and some were driven ashore. A number of houses were blown down throughout the city. No lives were lost. The Russian Commissioners have protested against the occupancy of the fur company's buildings by the U. S. troops, but by courtesy the troops are now sheltered and the supplies stored there. The matter will be referred to Mr. Seward.

General News.

Fernando Wood was nominated for Mayor by the Mozart Democrats last evening.

George Johnson was arrested to-day and held for trial, charged with having attempted to procure United States bonds amounting to $26,450, on a check for $25,466, purporting to have been drawn by Fred Butterfield & Co., on the Tenth National Bank, in favor of Jay Cooke & Co.

The Young Men's Christian Convention commenced its session to-day, also the Protestant Episcopal Diocesan Convention. Bishop Lee, of Iowa, by invitation, took a seat beside the President of the latter body.

Gen. McClellan did not return on the Scotia. It is said that private business will keep him in Paris till spring.

A daring highway robbery was committed in Flushing yesterday. The person's name was not given.

A man was robbed of $1,500 in Cedar street to-day. The money had just been procured at the Sub-Treasury.

O'Baldwin, the Irish giant, has challenged Jem Mace to fight him in this country for $5,000. Mace is shortly expected here, but it is not known if he will accept O'Baldwin's challenge. O'Baldwin has also forwarded a challenge to Mike McCoole to fight in England or America for $5,000. Report says Jim Elliott will challenge O'Baldwin should he come here.

ROCHESTER.

Weston, the Pedestrian.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 13.

Weston, the pedestrian, started at twenty minutes past eleven o'clock this morning for Buffalo. The roads are muddy, but he avowed his intention to be in Buffalo at three o'clock to-morrow morning. He indignantly denies the statements that he is in league with those who bet he would not make a hundred miles in twenty-four hours.

Execution of Lena Miller.

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Nov. 13.

Mrs. Lena Miller, the German woman who poisoned her husband last winter, was hanged today. She made a full confession.

FALL RIVER, MASS.

Mills Burned.

FALL RIVER, MASS., Nov. 13.

The Niantic Bread Mills, owned by M. Swall, of New York, and J. M. Davis, of Fall River, was totally destroyed by fire last night. Loss $40,000, partially insured. Supposed incendiary. About 80 hands are thrown out of employment.

WASHINGTON.

Affairs in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.

It is reported that a negro plot to kill white and colored men who vote the Conservative ticket in Virginia, has been discovered near Lynchburg. It is also said the negroes are debating in Mecklenburg and adjoining counties whether to seize the lands on the first of January if they are not given them. The Superintendent of the Freedmens Bureau at Winchester has had Judge Parker arrested on the charge that Union men cannot get Justice from him.

Judge Chase.

Judge Chase says he is more Radicle in name than in fact.

Disfranchised Rebels.

It is probable that Gen. Pope will send to Congress a list of rebels fit to be enfranchised and it is probable the Alabama Convention will make provision for such persons in the Constitution.

Sherman—President's Message.

Gen. Sherman is expected in Washington this week and some of the Conservatives are proposing a movement in his behalf for the Presidency. As a counter irritant movement at the Cabinet meeting yesterday it was finally decided that the message and annual reports shall not be sent to Congress till December.

BOSTON.

The Andrew Fund.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.

The friends of the late Ex-Governor Andrew are engaged in raising a fund of $100,000 for the benefit of his family. Over $60,000 has already been subscribed.

The National Banks.

The Comptroller of the Currency is preparing a report that will refute the statements that the Government pays the national banks twenty millions per annum for the privilege of issuing their own notes, and others of a like character. The truth is there is no interest in the country which pays so great a proportion of the taxation on the capital invested as the national bank interest.

The Colored Militia Question.

The colored militia question remains unsettled.

The Pay Department Committee.

The Pay Department Investigating Committee will not be prepared to submit a final report on the meeting of Congress.

WEST PHILADELPHIA.

Hon. Thad. Stevens.

WEST PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.

Hon. Thaddeus Stevens left Lancaster this morning at 9 o'clock in a special car, arriving here at noon. The car was attached to the through train for Washington. The journey did not appear to fatigue him. He was in good spirits and conversed freely with a large number of his friends who paid their respects to him during the time he was at West Philadelphia.

DR. SAGE'S Catarrh REMEDY.

PRODUCES PERFECT AND PERMANENT Cures of the WORST CASES OF CATARRH as HUNDREDS of CERTIFICATES from well known citizens and eminent physicians abundantly attest.

Thousands Suffer numerous attacks annually and many a large proportion of every year from COLD IN THE HEAD, which if not speedily relieved and cured, generally results in CATARRH. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will relieve the Pressure and Pain in the Head caused by sudden attacks of cold AT ONCE, and in a short time will cure the disease entirely.

One Hundred Thousand Persons annually die in this country of Consumption. There is the highest medical authority for saying that with fully one half, if not two thirds of this number, the disease first commences as a CATARRH IN THE NOSE OR HEAD. The next step being to the Throat and Bronchial Tubes. Lastly, the Lungs. CATARRH CAN BE CURED Bronchial Affections can be Cured, but CONSUMPTION CANNOT, therefore it should be prevented while possible.

The Remedy which we offer to the afflicted for the cure of Catarrh, is the result of years of patient experimental research by the discoverer, who has been a practicing physician for the past TWENTY YEARS, and who was himself a great sufferer from Chronic Catarrh, until he succeeded in discovering this remedy which effected a PERFECT AND RADICAL CURE in his own and subsequently in hundreds of other cases of this distressing malady.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD, TITUSVILLE, Nov. 13, 1867—10 P. M.

The Petroleum market opened dull this morning, and throughout the day but little change in feeling could be observed. During the morning buyers were offering $2 50 at the wells on Benninghoff Hill. At Pioneer offers were made at $2 40 delivered. In the after noon at Petroleum Centre, a round lot was offered at $2 50 delivered. The sales made delivered on the cars were as follows: Three car loads on Pioneer Run, for the New York market, from the Foster & Kennedy farm wells, on private terms; a round lot at Miller for storage, at $2 50; two car loads on Pioneer Run, for the New York market at $2 40; 200 barrels at Pithole delivered at Titusville at $2 40. The sales made at the wells were as follows: 100 barrels on Pioneer Run at $2 25, 300 barrels on the McClintock Farm, from the Foxwells, for the local market at $2 75; 500 barrels on Still Run, for the New York market at $2 25; 1,000 barrels on Benninghoff Hill, by the Benninghoff Oil Co., at $2 50. The market closed dull, with a decline of about 10 cents from our previous quotations.

At Oil City the market was inactive, with a wide difference between the views of buyers and sellers. We quote nominally at $2 85@3 00 delivered on broad gauge cars. At Rouseville a sale of three car loads is reported at $2 60 at the wells.

We quote:

Crude at Pioneer delivered on the cars	$2 50@2 60
Crude at Miller, delivered on the cars	2 50
Crude at Titusville	2 50
Crude at Church Run at the wells	2 30
Crude at Petroleum Centre	2 00

The amount and destination of Petroleum reported purchased to-day between Titusville and the Hyde & Egbert Farm, were as follows:

To New York, bbls	1100
To Cleveland	—
To other points bbls	3200
Total bbls	4300

The shipments over the Oil Creek Railroad from Titusville, Miller, Sheffer and Boyd Farm November 13th, were as follows:

To New York bbls	2271
To Cleveland	—
To other points	210
Total bbls	*2540

*Including 311 barrels Refined to New York.

PITTSBURGH OIL MARKET.

Special to the Morning Herald by Western Union Line

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13—11.30 A. M.

Crude—This market is becoming more firm as the indications for a bulk rise in the river are being deferred. The stock of oil on hand here is getting very much reduced, and the feeling for immediate delivery is strong. Sales are as follows: 2,500 barrels spot at 10c; 1,250 barrels spot at 10¼c, and 200 barrels spot at 9¾c, packages returned. This morning's advices from Oil City report the market unchanged and dull.

Refined—We quote bonded oil for December at ¼@½c higher. The following sales were made: 6,000 barrels, 500 each for each month in 1868 at 30c; 1,000 barrels, 500 each for January and February at 27c; 1,000 barrels for December at 29c; and 1,000 for same month at 30c.

Shipments eastward per Allegheny Valley Railroad reach 2,000 barrels, and from Duquesne depot 500 barrels refined.

PAYNE'S BARREL FILLER!

Important to

OIL REFINERS & DISTILLERS!

W. S. PAYNE'S IMPROVED SELF-CLOSING AUTOMATIC BARREL FILLER

Was patented September 10, 1867, and has just been introduced in the Oil Regions. The advantages gained by the use of the Filler are:

1st. SAVING OF TIME.—The Filler being so constructed that advantage is taken of the full pressure of the Oil or Liquid as it flows from the tank, the barrel is filled in from one half to one-fourth the time required by the usual process; and the Filler begins if closing the workman engaged in filling may be engaged in arranging or branding the barrels already filled; the Filler shuts off the flow of liquid, just at the right time, far more accurately than could be done by any workman.

2d. The employment of a Gauge, perfectly simple, but accurate and that the barrel may be filled to any required height, and then at once closed to any oil or liquid, or any external pressure, and that by its own action, being in this respect, a perfect automaton, and rendering the use of a "Chief" entirely unnecessary.

3. The barrel never overflows; this item is one often saving in a single day, more than the cost of the Filler.

This filler is designed to be used for filling Casks, Tanks, Cisterns, Water Tanks of Locomotives, and in general all vessels or receptacles that are to be filled with liquids. Its object is to economize labor. One man with this filler is big able to accomplish the work of four men without it. One man can easily at end to six of these instruments when at work thus accomplishing the work of four to six men using the old way. An engineer with this instrument can set it in operation and then go about his business of oiling his engine, etc., when the tank is filled, the water will be shut off, and the instrument withdrawn from the tank. It may be used about stores, in filling measures, bottles, etc., and effect a great saving of labor.

The filler is made in the most substantial manner of the best brass and by gas and steam fitters and are warranted to give perfect satisfaction.

W. S. PAYNE, M. S. SIMMONS, E. H. BRADY and W. H. HOWITT are the exclusive owners of the Patent.

A New Railroad.

A new railroad is projected between Buffalo and Detroit, on the nearly direct route skirting the north shore of Lake Erie. An application for the necessary charter is to be made to the Parliament of Ontario. The distance between Suspension Bridge and Detroit by the Great Western road is 324 miles, and the distance from Buffalo to Suspension Bridge 24 miles. The proposed line would be thirty miles shorter than the Great Western Railway, which is a saving in distance and so important that it must give a great advantage in competition for through traffic and more than compensate, probably, for the local traffic which the Great Western gains by running through Hamilton, London, and the other larger towns of the Province in its course The Cross-Cut road, connecting Brocton and Corry, and saving a distance of thirty-one miles is doing a thriving business at the expense of the old line round by the way of Erie.

The country along the lake shore is undoubtedly highly favorable in its topography for the construction of a railroad and would give it another advantage over its northern competitors It is a country sufficiently rich in resources to undergo rapid development when opened, and the road might be reasonably expected to create a thriving local traffic for itself within a few years of its construction.

There cannot be the least doubt that sooner or later this line of railroad, following the northern shore of the lake, must be built. The distance so be saved is too important, as an element of the cost of transportation, for the yearly increasing commerce of the Great West to neglect it long. It is an enterprise almost inseparable from that of bridging the Niagara river at Buffalo; and both the road and the International Bridge, not withstanding all past discouragements, are mere questions of time.

REVENUE DECISIONS.—The following are the late Internal Revenue decisions

The payment of a special tax by a firm covers the transactions of the firm only. If any member of the firm transacts, on his own private account, a business for which a special tax is required, he should be assessed without reference to the fact that the firm to which he belongs has paid a tax for the same kind or any other kind of business.

In the case of the death of a member of a firm which has had the proper special tax the electors, administrators, wife, children or legal representatives of the deceased may continue the same business in the same form for the remainder of the special tax year; provided register, &c., be made.

The use of a still by a chemist to produce alcoholic spirits makes them liable as distillers.

A guarantee endorsed upon a note, bond, mortgage or contract, whether made at the time of the execution of the note, &c., or subsequently, should be stamped as an agreement.

A mere unsigned memorandum of the amount of money paid upon a bond or contract, made upon itself in the usual way of endorsing partial payments, need not be stamped, whatever the sum paid.

When a person who has entered into a contract to convey certain lands upon payment of a certain sum, names a written endorsement of a partial payment upon a copy of the contract sold by the party making the payment, and signs it, he should affix a two-cent stamp if the amount received exceeds twenty dollars.

THE difference in the settlement of the accounts of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Company, the former being the lessees of the latter, has been brought to a conclusion. The amount in dispute was, originally, fourteen hundred thousand dollars. Committees of the respective companies have been negotiating the matter for nine months, and their conclusion has at length been accepted as mutually satisfactory. By the terms of settlement, the Pennsylvania Company becomes, next to the city of Philadelphia, the largest stockholder in the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad.

CALL.—The members of Brown's Silver Cornet Band are requested to meet at the band room this evening at 7:30, for practice and transaction of important business.

E. H. TOWLINSON, Secretary.

THE ART OF MONEY GETTING.

Lecture by P. T. Barnum—Rules and Receipts for Making a Fortune.

Corinthian Hall was crowded last evening by as brilliant and intelligent an audience as has ever been collected on any occasion in our city. The curiosity was universal throughout the oil region to see the world-renowned P. T. Barnum, and his lecture was of a most entertaining and instructive character. The ushers deserve credit for the good order with which the audience were seated. The address occupied over two hours and was filled with maxims of thrift and economy, and personal reminiscences, and interspersed with humorous anecdotes and allusions which kept the audience in constant good humor, and elicited frequent rounds of applause. We are able to present but a partial synopsis of the address, which owed one-half of its interest to the inimitable manner with which it was delivered.

Upon being introduced Mr. Barnum said: I have the honor to appear before you to call your attention to a subject which cannot fail to have occupied your thoughts, "Success in life, for the Art of Money Getting," and paradoxical as it may appear, I hope to present a few ideas and impart some practical experiences, which may be new even to you, the inhabitants of this world renowned city of excitement and speculation in the most money making portion in the world. I feel, ladies and gentleman, that I owe you an apology for having twice disappointed you last year. I usually pride myself on my punctuality in meeting my engagements, but last year I was seriously ill and could not possibly come as promised, and perhaps some of you may recollect that a Congressional election came off in my native State, at almost the same period and will possibly conclude that I was sicker after the election than before

I shall present a subject which will interest you all, "Success in life," and hope to give some new and useful ideas Some claim that this art of money-getting appeals only to our lower nature, and not to our moral and intellectual capacity, and to some extent this is true. Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton and Washington Irving have satirized that inordinate love of money, which is purely human.

We all have been endorsing Burns' lines,

"The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's the man for a' that."

but meantime we have all been fighting, struggling and trying to obtain filthy lucre. This is true of all classes; the eminent physician, the prima donna, the learned advocate, the poet, all consider the pursuit of money as the main work of life. I have an uncle who commenced life a poor boy and made himself rich; and he made a very good reply to one who talked with him about the sin of money-getting. Said he: "I have been poor and now am rich, and I like best to be rich." And so it is with all of us. Talk as we may about its evils we all want wealth.

The history of money is the history of commerce, and wherever trade has flourished most there art and science have produced the noblest fruits. Those who have helped on the cause of literature and science, have been the moneyed men of the day. Instance, Franklin, Peter Cooper and others.

Money getting is liable to abuse, as are also other desirable things. We find sometimes the miser, but he is simply a nuisance, and does more harm than good; it is a source of comfort that some time he will die and leave his money to good uses.

An Irishman once saved a miser from drowning, and was handed a sixpence. "What," said he, "is this all you give a man for saving your life?" Then, taking a second look, he said, "Well, faith, and I guess it is all that it is worth."

Wealth is the golden key which opens the means of happiness and of doing good. It is a very simple thing in America to make money, but the most difficult thing is to keep it. The habit of spending less than one earns is the road to wealth Many persons make a double mistake; they think they know what economy is, and second by not knowing it all what it is, but thinking that they do, they fail to learn to practice it. They economise in little mean ways, such as saving the candle ends, or cutting down the servants' wages twenty-five cents a week.—The economy of some ladies runs to tallow candles, while they can afford to spend their hundreds on the street for rats, mice and poodles.—The economy of some runs to writing paper; they use old bits and ends, and perhaps sometimes in this way throw away papers containing valuable figures. Their economy tends to one point only. Like the man who bought a penny herring and hired a coach to take it home in, they save at the spigot and waste at the bung.

He advised all to keep an exact account of expenses, and the items of necessity would not be found double or treble what they otherwise expected. Some attempt to deceive others by appearing to be wealthy when they are not, thus keeping their wife's nose down to the grindstone and ruining themselves. The ladies are frequently envious of their richer friends, and will suffer any sacrifice in order to make the same outward show as those whom they envy. This false ambition is keeping thousands of families poor, and they deserve to be kept so.

A man who uses intoxicating drinks to excess, cannot succeed in business. He who did would be as great a curiosity as the wooly horse or the mermaid. A man cannot succeed unless his brain is sober and his hand steady.

When a young man arrives at a suitable age, he, or his guardian for him, should select the exact line of life for which he seems fitted.—Some seem exactly intended for mechanics, while it will be a long and useless labor to teach it to others, because they are not suited to that vocation. In all conditions in life you will find many who have mistaken their vocation. Yet sometimes one may learn the trade or calling for which he was intended, but failed because he was not located in the right place He might be suited to keep a great house like the Astor House, but in the wrong place he would make a failure.

Young men starting in life should beware of getting in debt John Randolph once said that he had discovered the philosopher's stone. It was "Pay as you go." Some young men strut about in new clothes which they have never paid for, intending some time to go to work and get out of debt. There is no class of men with so good memories as creditors, and these young men will find the time for paying come when they are not ready. No young man has a right to draw on the future for what he uses to-day. Better wear the old coat, and turn and patch it, rather than run in debt. You lose your credit, your self-respect and that of others, and will never get along in the world.

Money is like fire, a good servant but a poor master. In debt you become its slave. Get money of your own and put it out at interest, and you will find it your faithful servant. There is no servant that will work for you seven days in the week but money.

When you have laid down your plans, then persevere. As David Crockett said:

"Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

The timid man becomes discouraged some times when success is in his grasp, let go, fails and is ruined. He loses the golden opportunity. "There is a tide in the affairs of men, that taken at the flood leads on to fortune." The General who "fights it out on that line, if it takes all summer," is sure to succeed. [Applause.] We must depend upon our personal exertion It will not do to trust to the eyes of others. Frequently the eyes of the employer are better than the hands of a dozen servants.

Young man, you will not find any one to help you along by lending you money. The only way to make a fortune is to make it yourself, and this is the only fortune that can be truly enjoyed.—No man should ever endorse a note for any one to an extent which he can not afford to lose. If you do it, expect to give the amount By endorsing for a friend, frequently a man not only loses his own fortune, but ruins his friends whom he means to assist.

There is no such a thing as luck in the world. Some men are successful and others unsuccessful, but it generally depends upon themselves.—Many a fortune has been lost by merely going into something which they knew nothing about.

A man in business should get a good article that the people want, and then advertise it.—Your advertisement brings people to see your article, and then they become walking advertisements for you. A farmer sows his seed and awaits his return, and so advertisements will bring in their return in due time. Advertising is like learning, a little is a dangerous thing. You must keep hammering on that nail and clinch it. If you don't advertise your goods it is likely that the Sheriff will do it for you by and by. Do it in such a way that the people cannot fail to read it, and continue it until they must try the article advertised.

Some advertisements need only to be read once to attract attention. Some are afraid that if they do this they will be called humbug. The speaker had known men to be called this and live through it. It would be foolish perhaps for a physician to get out of a coach and four and parade the streets to advertise himself. It might be a humbug but it would be no cheat. An Englishman had an advertisement of his blacking painted on the walls of the pyramids in Egypt. Some travelers seeing this felt provoked at the desecration, and wrote to the London Times about it. Their complaints was published widely throughout the country and it proved to be the fortune of the blacking man, by advertising in this way his blacking.

The humble speaker had been considered the most stupendous humbug in the world. He would plead guilty to being a humbug in this way, which he has instanced. He had the wa p sky-rockets to attract public attention to his museum. They made the most horrible music ever heard, and the people were sometimes glad to pay twenty-five cents to get inside where they could not hear it.

The best capital in the world is politeness and liberality. Give the most for the money that you possibly can afford. It is a matter of policy and will be sure to succeed. Don't tell about your business. If you do this you may find somebody who will envy you and perhaps set up in opposition. If you are losing money don't tell of it, for people will be sure to forsake you. A wealthy Quaker had a motto, "keep your own secret." A man never makes anything by telling his secrets.

There is nothing so difficult as to get money dishonestly. In the long run honesty is the best policy.

In conclusion the speaker thanked the audience for their attention, and hoped that the time had not been altogether lost in considering that art preservative of all arts, the art of money-making.

The Union Pacific Railroad.

The New York Mining Journal says there are five hundred miles of the Pacific Railroad, west of Omaha, now completed; and, considering the amount already accomplished by the Central Pacific Company of California, it is safe to say, that more than one-third of the whole line is now in running order. Under these circumstances, the announcement does not seem unreasonable that the road will be open to the Pacific in three years. But the abbreviation of the overland transit at present accomplished, is sure to secure to the railroad, in its partially completed condition, an immense and daily increasing business. Already the saving in time, as compared with the Panama route, is more than a week; and the tide of travel is turning in consequence into this new channel. The net earnings of the quarter ending July 31, were more than four times the interest on the mortgage bonds. These statistics show that as a commercial enterprise alone, the road is certain to be successful; but there are other aspects of the case no less important. The United States could better afford to build two roads than undertake one Indian or Mormon war.—The average cost of killing a single Indian (as our wars have been conducted,) will build and equip a mile of railroad.—The steady prosecution and defence of the great lines of communication was the first and most important element in our Indian policy. We should have more faith in the treaties recently concluded with the hostile tribes, had they been negotiated at a different season of the year. The Indians of the plains are always ready to make peace in the fall, and declare war in the spring. Without pausing, however, to discuss the question of their sincerity and good faith in the present instance, we would express our hope and confident expectation that the Pacific Railroad will be pushed forward in future, as energetically and rapidly as hitherto, so that any revival of opposition to it on the part of our naturally noble, but occasionally intoxicated and bloodthirsty allies, may be entirely too late to hinder its successful completion. Swiftly as this great work has been advanced, to the vast regions that await its coming, it seems to creep. What will be its effect, in vivid industry, extended exploration, distributed comfort and civilization, increased wealth, it is impossible even to imagine. When we consider the achievements of mining enterprise in the West, and bear in mind that they have been accomplished almost without the aid of those means of communication which are ordinarily considered, in these days, essential to industry and commerce, we can scarcely set a limit to the splendid developments of the future, when this great desideratum shall have been supplied.

PROGRESS.—Even under the despotic rule of the Emperor of Austria, it is impossible to resist the advancing spirit of Republicanism. By a recent law of the Legislative Assembly at Vienna, not only is the equality of the various nationalities composing the Empire established, but the right of free assemblages of the people, of the freedom of the press, of the freedom of worship, and of State control of education, which has hitherto been in the hands of the clergy, is a part of the fundamental constitution. Austria, by these reforms, is made in reality more free than France, where the rights of meeting, of the press and of religion, are still in the hard grasp of the government.

SELLING Off at smashing low prices, Jno. W. Euler is now offering his stock of fancy articles at reduced prices to make room for his immense stock of holiday goods, which will soon be here. Now is the time to make your presents.

For the Morning Herald

Courage Take.

BY MRS. EVRA CARPENTER.

Courage take, oh pilgrim soldier,
Bravely still thy foes defend;
Though the hosts of sin be at thee,
He who made will not forget thee,
It will be thy friend.

Wary be, oh, pilgrim soldier,
Put Truth's matchless armor on;
With the sword of Justice arm thee;
Then though foes conspire to harm thee,
Thou need'st fear from none.

For thy breastplate, pilgrim soldier,
Wear thy conscience pure and bright;
Let no stain dim its glory,
That in darkness gathering o'er thee
It may give thee light.

When thou hast, oh, pilgrim soldier,
Nobly fought the battle through,
White as angel hands shall crown thee,
While as angel souls shall own thee
For their champion true.

Pleasantville, Pa., Nov. 13, 1867.

The Crops.

After considerable fluctuation in the estimates of the yield of the leading cereal crops, put forth by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, that authority has at length settled down upon 220,000,000 to 225,000,000 bushels as the approximate yield of wheat this year in the United States, excluding the Pacific States and Territories. We gather from the report of the Department that, while few localities have exhibited large yields per acre, and some have caused comparative disappointment by an average product less than was confidently expected in the harvesting, the sum total in bushels will exceed that of any harvest hitherto gathered in this country. It will surmount the figures of last year by 40,000,000 to 50,000,000, but will not reach the amount which should have been attained upon the ratio of increase made between 1850 and 1860 by 20,000,000. The stock of old wheat was nearly, if ever, so reduced when the new crop began to come upon the market. The aggregate yield of oats, it is estimated, will exceed two hundred and eighty millions of bushels—about three per cent. above that of 1866. The estimate of rye for all the States, excepting those on the Pacific, is twenty-one millions of bushels. This is an increase of four per cent. over the product of last year. The barley crop is slightly deficient—about half a million bushels, or four per cent., as compared with the crop of last year. There is more than an average crop of beans and peas. The quality of corn is uniformly good, leaving no doubt that the value of the entire crop, after deducting the deficiency in the Ohio Valley, and allowing for an increase in almost all the other States, will be greater, not only in cash, but in the intrinsic life-sustaining and pork-producing power, than that of last year. The buckwheat crop will scarcely be equal to that of last year. The crop of potatoes is a poor one. A decline in the tobacco products is indicated in the principal tobacco growing sections. Louisiana, the only State producing cane sugar to any extent, reports an increase of twenty per cent. over the small yield of last year. The cotton returns of October indicate a considerable increase in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama; about the same yield as last in Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee, and a marked diminution in Texas and Louisiana. All the estimates below 2,000,000 of bales of 500 pounds each, are decidedly fallacious; while present indications favor an approximate to 2,500,000 bales.

PAYNE'S PATENT BARREL FILLER.—We take especial pleasure in bringing this invention before the public, and ask every man who is engaged in filling barrels with crude or refined oil to make a personal examination of the simple but perfect machine. We give below the letters of well known and responsible parties who have made a practical test of their operation, Messrs. Crane, Thacker & Co. and Z. Ferris, Esq., both of Petroleum Centre.

Office of the American Oil Works,
Petroleum Centre, Sept 16, 1867.

MR. W. S. PAYNE, SIR:—

Having used your self-closing barrel filler for several months past, to the extent of about one hundred barrels per day, we have no hesitancy in saying that it has proved entirely satisfactory; being a great saving of Labor and an entire guard against waste of valuable liquids. Two Hundred Dollars would not buy our machine if we could not get another.

JOSH BILLINGS

Will Recite his New "Lektur,"

"MILK,"

AT

CORINTHIAN HALL,

Wednesday Eve. Nov. 20.

NEW YORK, July, 1867.

GENTLEMEN:—I have prepared a discourse of a comic tendency, about ninety minutes in longevity, to which I have given the title of "MILK." The programme attached, is at present, a literal invoice of the various subjects attacked. I am prepared to read it before LYCEUM and LITERARY ASSOCIATIONS, the coming fall and winter. The price of the "Lektur" is $50 00. I might possibly be induced to discount the eighty-eight dollars, but the forty cents I must invariably have I pay all my own expenses. If you should feel as though you would like some "Milk," please address "JOSH BILLINGS," care of G. W. Carleton, Publisher, 499 Broadway, New York. Yours affectionate ly,

HENRY W. SHAW.

Prominent Humps of the "Lektur."

Preamble—(in which the speaker rambles a good deal.)

Humor—and comick "Lektures" gently portrayed (rather sample.)

Lifting—in which many "lifting" is held to be good.

Letter—from Long Branch to my Uncle Benjamin (uncle by marriage.)

Proverbs—of a mixed and harmless nature.

Monographs—The Happy Man—The Live Man—The Handsome Man, &c.

My Shade Tree—and how I trimmed it, (a bad job.)

Monographs—The Zealous Man—The Inquisitive Man—The Lazy Man, &c.

Mister Billings—corresponds with sundry people.

Monographs—The Domestick Man—The Jealous Man—The Model Man, &c.

Josh—longs for something, (milk punch probably.)

Proverbs—proverbs, like cambric needles, should be short, sharp and shiney.

Monographs—The Perfect Man—The Fault finding Man (two bad eggs.)

Correspondence—with "Bemiah Pootes," "Student" and "Brown," (slight applause.)

Natural History—The "Alligator"—The "Crow"—The "Bumble Bee," and other beasts.

Conclusion—(Repeated cries of go on, but it is "no go").
